

BOILING SPRINGS FIRE DISTRICT

GREENVILLE | SC

FIREHOUSE No.

11

PROJECT DETAILS

Boiling Springs Firehouse Number 11, located in Greenville, SC, is designed to create a supportive, home-like environment that helps firefighters manage the physical and mental challenges of their work. The station thoughtfully balances spaces for training, daily operations, and rest, promoting resilience, focus, and camaraderie among personnel. This approach ensures that firefighters are well-prepared and cared for throughout their shifts, helping them maintain their well-being while serving the community.

In addition to its operational role, the station will feature a 9/11 Memorial with a steel beam from the World Trade Center, providing a solemn space for reflection and honoring the sacrifice of first responders. This tribute deepens the station's connection to the firefighting community's history and reinforces its commitment to remembrance, resilience, and public service.

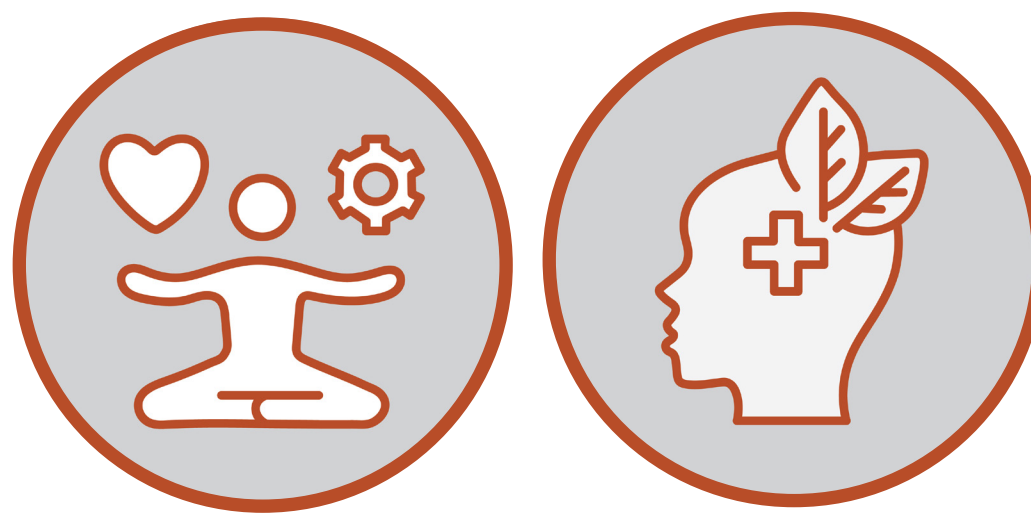

PLAN - UPPER LEVEL

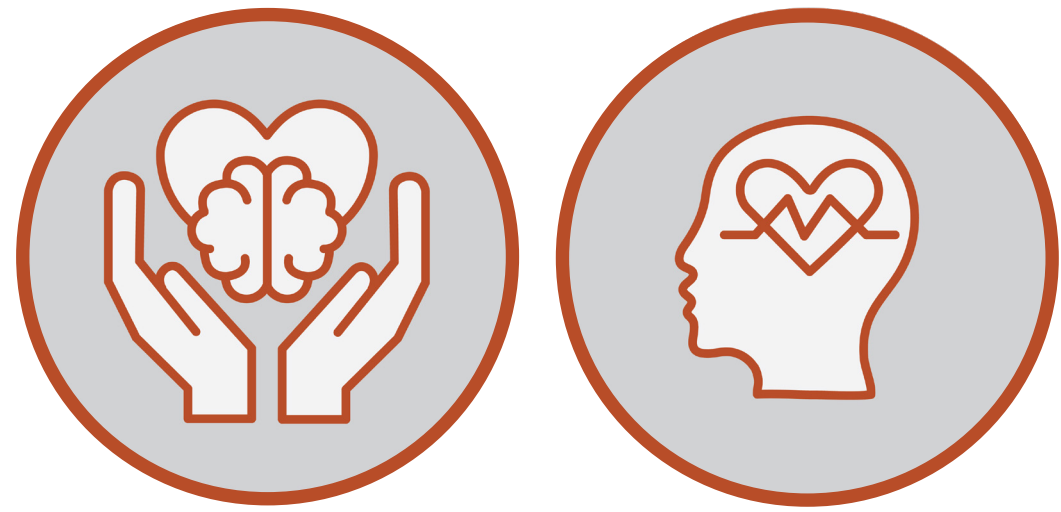

PLAN - LOWER LEVEL

WHERE READINESS MEETS RECOVERY

This station balances the demands of emergency response with the well-being of its personnel. Functional spaces are paired with areas for relaxation and recovery, creating an environment that supports resilience and long-term performance.

HOME-STYLE FIRE HOUSE

Bringing the warmth of home while maintaining durability to the station helps support the emotional needs of firefighters under constant pressure.

9/11 MEMORIAL

Coming soon will be a memorial honoring the courage and sacrifice of first responders during 9/11.
